TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At a meeting of the bar of East Tennesses in attendance upon the Supreme Court at Knoxville, on Thursday, the 22d of September, 1853, for the purpose of expressing their appreciation and respect for the distinguished public services and personal character of the Hon. Charles F. Keith, Judge of the third Judicial Circuit of Tennessee, who is now about retiring, upon his voluntary retire-ment from the bench, the following proceedings were had:

On motion of Col. John C. Gaut, Thomas C. Lyon, Esq., was elected Chairman of the meeting, and James M. Welcker, requested to act as Secretary; whereupon Col. James A. Whitesides, presented to the meeting, and moved the adoption of the following preamble and resolution, which being read seconded, were unanimously adopted.

try, its constitution and laws, can, in contemplation of our past history, reflect, with a just pride, upon the purity of the tribunals of justice and the incorruptibility of our Judges. Although every American constitution provides for the impeachment of those officers, if they display partiality or corruption in the discharge of their official duties, the instances are rare, in our history, in which such proseentions have been instituted and still more rare in which they have been successful .-Contrasted with the tyranny which, for centunes prevailed in England, where the Judges held their offices at the pleasure of the crown, and were too often the myrmidons of power, American Judges may be considered as having approached perfection in the dispensation of justice as nearly as it is possible for human wisdom and human frailty to attain it. So long as the judiciary shall continue to be pure and without represent, so long will civil liber-ty continue; but if ever the fountains of justice are tainted and corrupted, we may bid "farewell-a long farewell" to the cherished theory of man's capacity for self government. The American bar, from a period coeval with our revolution have been the steadfast friends of liberty. Lawyers were concerned in pre-paring and promulgating the Declaration of Independence. Lawyers were conspicuous in forming the great charter of our liberties -the Constitution of the United States-and have been instrumental in framing every state constitution; and as Judges and legislators have ever regarded, with watchful jealousy, the rights of the people. And it is in consi quence of their high appreciation of the inde-pendence of the judiciary in its connection with the great cause of human liberty, and of their anxiety to preserve untarnished, the freedom we enjoy, that the usage has long prevailed among them of expressing upon the death, or retirement from the bench, of meritorious judicial officers, their opinions o the manner in which they have discharged their duties, not only because the plaudit. "well done thou good and faithful servant," is grateful in itself, but because such tributes of respect are calculated to excite in the profession, and especially among the junior members of the bar, an honorable and noble

Availing ourselves of a time honored custom, the members of the East Tennessee bar, now in attendance upon the Supreme Court, deem the retirement of the Hon. Charles F. Keith, from the bench of the third judicis circuit, an appropriate occasion upon which very briefly to express their sense of the man-ner in which he has discharged his duty. Born in the State of Virginia, on the 22nd

November, 1784, he emigrated to this State in 1799, and returning to his native State to pursue the study of the law, he permanently settled in Tennessee, in the year 1804, and has sided here ever since. Twice a mem-ber of our Legislature, he was elected in 1820 a Judge of the Circuit Court, and has held that office, with the exception of four years, by various re-elections for nearly thirty-three years, being the oldest judicial officer in the State, and having passed his "three score years and ten," he has voluntarily resigned it. This simple statement of facts is his own highest culogy. No man could hold office thus long under the constitution of this State, who was not eminently worthy of public confidence, and who did not, in a high degree, command the respect and veneration of the bar. Sharing, in a good degree, the talents, and possessing all the firmness and indep dence of his distinguished relative, Chief Justice Marshall, he has worn the judicia ermine nearly as long. Never did it adors a purer or more faithful and incorruptible public servant. As a mark of respect for his talents and service, it is therefore,

Resolved, That the members of the East Tennessee bar tender to Judge Keith their cordial thanks for his uniform kindness and courtesy while presiding as a judicial officer; their sincere respect for the dignity, impar-tiality and firmness with which he has discharged his duties, and their earnest desire that in the retirement of old age, he may be as tranquil and happy as he has been useful and respectable upon the theatre of action.

On motion of Wm. G. Swan, Esq., which being seconded by T. A. R. Nelson, Esq., it was resolved that the conductors of the sev was resolved that the conductors of the several papers of the city be respectfully requested to publish these proceedings.

On motion of John C. Ramsey, Esq., the Secretary was requested to furnish the Hon. Charles F. Keith with a copy of the proceedings of this meeting.
On motion of Robert M. Barton, Esq., the meeting adjourned sine die.

The Memphis papers contain the par. ticulars of the murder of his wife and fatherin-law, by a man named Hicks in Haywood county:

Some time since John Hicks and his wife separated and she returned to her father's, a man by the name of House, living near man by the name of House, living near Estanaula, on the South side of Hatchie.— Last Wednesday Hicks went over to old man House's, for the purpose of having a difficulty, it is supposed. House was in bed at the time, but the two soon got into an altereation, when Hicks raised his gun and attempted to shoot, but Mrs. Hicks run in between him and her father, at the same time threw up the gun. House got up and rushed in the melee, when Hieks drew a pistol, and reaching over his wife's shoulder shot House, the ball penetrating his lungs. The latter immediately fled, leaving Mrs. Hicks hold of the gun.—Hicks asked her to go home with him, but she refusing to go, he threatened to kill her, and she let go of the gun and run. She had hardly reached the door before Hicks fired and shot her, the ball entering her back, and and her father, at the same time threw up the hardly reached the door before fricas fred and shot her, the ball entering her back and penetrating her heart, when she fell back and died almost immediately. Hicks stood in the room, nearly over the corpse of his murdered wife, loaded his gun again and started out in pursuit of House, but the paidthers coming in about this time, he fled. neighbors coming in about this time, he fled, and has not been heard from since. It is understood he was run off over the Missis sippi river, and is now in Arkansas. House was alive at the latest accounts from there, but there is little probability of his recovery.

PRESENTATION.—The premium of Shelby county for the best bale of cotton exhibited at the Crystal Palace was presented to Col. John Pope on the 22d just, at Memphis. The prize consisted of a large, massive silver salver, a pair of beautiful silver candlesticks, with branches, and a magnificent mantle clock and vase, worth altogether $100. The inscription on the centre of the salver was: Presented by the Cotton Merchants of Memphis, to Col. John Pope for exhibiting a Prize cently paid a check for $160 which had no Bale in the Crystal Palace, New York, 1853."

A RAILROAD FACT .- A North Carolina corespondent of the New York Times makes the following statement:

"The advantages offered by railroads to the arms of inland districts are strikingly shown by the following, which was narrated to me as a fact: A gentleman near Raleigh, who had a quantity of wheat to dispose of, and seeing it quoted at high prices in a paper of Petersburg, Va., and seeing at the same time the advertisement of a commission-house "The curious have observed that the prothere, wrote to the latter, making an offer of The next day he received a reply by mail, and by the train a bundle of sacks, in which immediately forwarded the wheat, and by the following return mail received his pay at the rate of $1.20 a bushel, the top price of the winter. At the same time, forty miles from where he lived, off the line of the railroad, wheat was selling at 60 cents a bushel. There was one county, during the time I was roads were absolutely impassable, and which had not been heard from at the capital for a month. It is not, therefore, incredible that it should cost 60 cents to move a bushel of wheat forty miles."

THESE Cases, now coming into general use, I are admitted by those who have witnessed their merits, to be superior to any kind of Coffins, for depositing in vaults, or for ordinary interments. The advantages they possess are obvious to all. Being enameled inside and out, they are impervious to dampness; and the gratification of surviving friends have in the reflection that the body is deposited in an imperishable case, where all that remains of the deceased are kept together with-out danger of being crushed by the weight of earth upon it, and free from the irruption of water or depredations of vermin, as is the case where wood Coffins are used, would alone suf-fice to recommend them. They are also superior to any other Coffin for transporting bodies, for, when properly cemented, they are perfectly air-tight, and free from exhalation of oriensize gases. They cost no more than good wood Coffins, covered, are light and portable, of a classic form, are highly ornamental, and without the repulsive appearance of wooden Coffins.

The following certificate from some of the most distinguished men of the country, some of whom have been buried in these Cases since the certificate was given, will be suffi-cient to recommend them to the public.
